HAMPSTHWAITE FEAST

Established by Royal Charter in 1304

Hampsthwaite Village Feast & Show

22nd & 23rd July 2006

Foreword by Roger Bowers

To be invited to open the Hampsthwaite Feast is very much like receiving the freedom of the village; and when I think of the very distinguished and high-ranking people who have performed this duty – wow! Why me? But having said all that, I am delighted to accept the invitation. I wish all competitors every success and, on your behalf, I thank the organisers and sponsors for making it all possible.

Hampsthwaite is a family village. If like me, you were born, went to school and worked in the village; lived here for a short time or have needed to move away; to us all, Hampsthwaite is always the place we call home.

To everyone, have a happy Hampsthwaite Feast 2006.

The Feast and Hampsthwaite

It seems astonishing that already I am sitting down to write my foreword for Feast 2006. It seems but a short while since we enjoyed the event last year in marvellous sunshine – let us all hope to be blessed with good weather again.

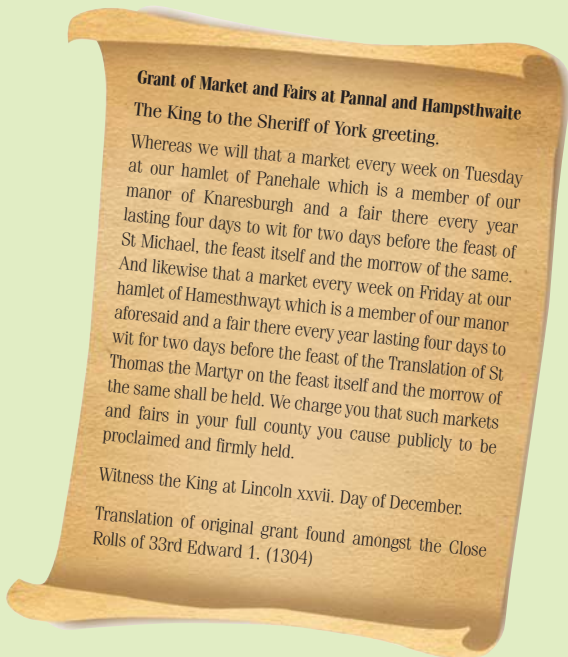

The organisers have continued in their quest to help the village and others in addition to improving the Feast itself. Together with other village organisations, we are currently supporting the production of a Village Plan for Hampsthwaite and we are represented on the Parish Council sub-group charged with the development of a recreation and play area for the village. Our support for this particular project is entirely consistent with our intention that the Feast should focus on children and families. Our special thanks go to Harrogate Timber for providing the safety railing alongside the beck in the Memorial Hall car park. The Feast 'Engineering Group' will be working on the construction of bridges across Cockhill Beck to provide access to the play area and to replace the existing rather rickety footbridge. We have also been pleased to support the Village in Bloom competition by providing flower troughs for the Memorial Hall.

After so much activity, the organisers now look forward, as you will, to a relaxing and enjoyable Feast 2006. This year will see at least two hawks flying over the cricket field – an RAF jet and a live bird of prey!

As ever, the most important ingredient for any Feast is you, its supporters, so do please come along with your friends and families to enjoy this major Hampsthwaite occasion.
